

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY RESUME WRITING

"Information Technology is much more than just a computer."

IT resumes have suffered in the past. Many of those involved in information technology – especially those having reached Senior and upper echelon positions - simply don't have the time to devote to resume documentation to highlight results-driven experience. Many professionals in this space also see resumes as a necessity and not the sales and promotional tool they are, and the result is a dry recitation of codes and skills rather than a dynamic description of successes and value-adds.

The technology market remains at the forefront of business operations for every industry. Optizm Global itself is a true technology company with core competency and “teeth cutting” in the IT arena, with decades of experience and dozens of clients under our belts. Therefore, our team are always kept up to date with the latest in IT trends and employment issues, thus ensuring you resume captures today's market essence while concisely capturing your unique contributions.

We cover a range of IT resumes which include, but are not restricted to:
